

On February 1, 2021 we held our first full meeting of the semester! We had a very interesting discussion about the French Revolution! We began the meeting by watching two Ted-Ed videos about the French Revolution. One video was a general summary of the revolution, and the second video discussed if Napoleon “saved the revolution or destroyed it”. We had a short discussion, then played a Kahoot about the French Revolution! Towards the end of the meeting then briefly talked about the book “The Black Count” by Tom Reiss about Black French General Thomas-Alexandre Dumas. We ended the meeting by making plans for the next meeting!
